

The Yukon has often been painted as a harsh and cruel land, a land where tough men and women have come and hammered out an existence for themselves using only the few possessions they brought with them and what they made along the way, their very lives constantly at risk.

We prefer to paint it the way we've found it to be. A gentle land blessed with abundant wildlife and resources. And we too, have noticed the stunning beauty of the land.

“Teslin Lake” means “long threadlike waters” in the local Tlingit tongue. The 70 mile long body of crystal clear water provides access to many points of interest as most of the lake lies in undisturbed wilderness. This lake is also famous for its fishing. Lake trout are attracted to the “mudline” in June right near the village of Teslin. Later, they travel to more southerly points along the lake.

Northern Pike, or “slough shark” can be found in Eagle Bay in abundance. the reference to the shark family is not totally without merit. A pike will attack almost anything travelling through its waters, often, it seems, as if in a rage. Be prepared for some exciting fishing action in a scenic area you won't soon forget!

The Tlingit word for “Nisutlin” means “quiet waters”. A four or five day canoe trip down the lower Nisutlin takes you through a country rich in wildlife and scenery. We will outfit you with the needed gear including transportation to the put-in point forty miles up the South Canol Road. Guided trips are available if you prefer.
